

CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY
WASHINGTON, D. C.
OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR

9 October 1973

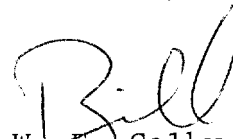

Mr. George A. Carver, Jr.
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C.

Dear George:

Belatedly as usual, but nonetheless sincerely, thank you for your first note with my new title. Our association has had some fascinating aspects over time, and I for one have valued it enormously for the good sense and imagination you have always displayed. I also realize that this is not a single job but one that depends on a lot of help. I know I will receive this from you, as I have in the past.

Thanks again.

Sincerely,

W. E. Colby
Director
